

THE MEMPHIS APPEAL

ESTABLISHED 1840.

MEMPHIS, TENN., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 16, 1886.

VOL. XLVI.

The sympathy of the civilized world will go out to the people of the city of Vancouver, who, to-day are homeless and homeless, the place having been destroyed by fire.

The Republicans have nominated Messrs. Baxter, Warder, Murray, Watson and Randolph for Supreme Court Judges. An easy ticket to beat. The Democrats will have a walk-over.

The letter of Mr. W. P. Prondit, which we print in another column, is an urgent plea for prompt subscription by the so far recalcitrant property owners, who, by their silence or refusal to make common cause with their neighbors, put themselves at a disadvantage that we feel sure needs only to be pointed out to enable them to see themselves in a false attitude, and one they cannot afford to occupy. No man of property can in justice to himself permit his neighbors to pay for the protection of his property. For this reason and the other which is embraced in the urgent necessity for immediate work to save Tennessee from imminent danger of being swept away by the river, it is not, we think, too much to hope that the needed $4500 will be subscribed to-day, that the committee which meet at Fells & Co.'s this morning may be enabled to give out contracts at once according to the plans so generously suggested by Capt. Smith Lesh, of the corps of engineers, United States army.

Yesterday in New Orleans a man most conspicuous for his benevolence and blessing of all classes of the people of that great city. The Governor of Louisiana, the judges of the courts, the municipal authorities, all the great trade and other corporations, as well as all the religious bodies of New Orleans were present or represented at the funeral of Rabbi Garheim. He was a man of great intellectual and literary ability, but, above that, he was a good man, a philanthropist. The leading Catholic and Protestant pastors expressed a great admiration for him, and the greatest pulpit orator of the South, the greatest in the Presbyterian Church, delivered an eloquent and touching address in view of his remains. His memory was thus greatly honored by the united voice of Jew and Gentile, because he was a good man. Verily, there is nothing greater than goodness. For humanity it comprehends all things that are good.

EX-CHAIRMAN SMITH dies hard. Like a celebrated Bowery tragedian, when by all the rules of the drama he should stay dead, he comes to life again, yelling: "My chair, my chair, my lost chair!" What is there in that chair that should make it so dear to him in the face of the repeated declarations of the County Court that he cannot and must not have it he still takes up the time of that and other courts of the county and State in a vain and futile effort to prove that he knows better than the court what it needs and ought to have in a chairman; that he alone is right, and all the rest of the justices are wrong; that their word ought not to weigh the value of a continental against his; that they are idiots who do not know that a majority—21 of 39—of them voted for slaughter; that they are dreaming, have no sense to appreciate facts, and he alone has memory for them? This is Smith's attitude before the court. Before the people he is a nuisance to be abated by the courts effectually and forever expunged from the scene. Neither the County Court nor the people want Smith. He is down and out, and the repeated decisions of that court say he must stay down and out. Slaughter is chairman by virtue of a majority of the votes cast and he cannot be disturbed.

There are, let us say in answer to a correspondent, seven reasons why the Taxing District government should not enter into a contract with the Memphis Gas Light Company to the exclusion of other and new companies: (1)—It would create a monopoly which is repugnant to the constitution of the State, which does not permit to one man a privilege that all others in the State cannot share. (2)—It says to foreign capital "our doors are closed against you and whenever you attempt to enter into competition with established enterprises here the city government, having the power, will effectually interpose that power to prevent you." (3)—There is no provision of law under which the Taxing District government can become a partner in a manufacturing of any kind, on any terms, whether of assumed advantage or not. (4)—The compensation of free gas for the city, the consumers being compelled for ten years to pay $2 per 1000 feet for the gas they consume, would not be an adequate compensation for the loss of a competing company that pledges itself to supply gas at $1.75 per 1000 feet to consumers. (5)—Such a contract would effectually shut out the city from the benefits of any new discovery in gas or electricity, because if lighted free it would be sheer folly for the city to pay for electric or other lights, no matter how advantageous from the basis of a more effective and searching light at night. (6)—The city would lose the annual taxes on the $500,000 of capital which the new company proposes to invest. (7)—The city can only make a contract for light, as at present, at a much higher price; it cannot legally prevent competition. Even the State, which is sovereign within her limits, cannot do that. She cannot, nor can the United States, grant an exclusive privilege to any citizen or number of citizens because it would be a menace to enterprise and, as we have said, repugnant to the constitution.

TENNESSEE REPUBLICANS.

ONE OF THE FINEST CONVENTIONS IN THE HISTORY OF THE STATE—A Straight Ticket Nominated for the Supreme Bench.

HISTORY OF THE STATE—A Straight Ticket Nominated for the Supreme Bench.
NASHVILLE, TENN., June 15.—The Republican State Judicial Convention, which assembled in the hall of the House of Representatives at noon to-day, was the first of a decade in the history of the party. But little enthusiasm could be aroused, and all that was done was the nomination of the slate fixed by B. S. Honk, Editor Little and Arch Hughes yesterday.
